Carson C. Biddulph

Carson's practice focuses on estate planning, business planning, and business transactions. He enjoys helping clients plan for the future and protect what they have created.

Before becoming an attorney, Carson taught high school history. Through that experience, Carson developed an emphasis on preparation, communication, and meeting people where they are. He loves the Eugene community and is grateful to have built his legal career in a place that he is proud to call home.

Outside of work, Carson enjoys spending time with his wife, daughter, and dog. He also enjoys attending University of Oregon athletic events, playing golf, and walking through Alton Baker Park.
